

Sue Stands Up for Us.

Sue Serino understands the challenges facing our families because she's lived them.

That's why Sue:

- ✓ Voted to repeal the 18A Energy Tax
- ✓ Called for a stop to fees and an investigation into Central Hudson's bad billing practices
- ✓ Opposed extreme measures that drive up energy costs and force New Yorkers to replace costly appliances, vehicles, and home equipment

Vote! Tuesday, November 8th | Early Voting Starts October 29th

STRONG. INDEPENDENT. LEADERSHIP.

"I got my start in government by standing against my own party to oppose a local energy tax. Now, I'm standing up to utility companies and fighting to keep costs down. With your vote on Election Day, I won't stop."

HIGHER PRICES AT HOME? THANK HINCHEY.

Michelle Hinchey says she'll hold electric companies like Central Hudson accountable, but she's pushing policies that will increase their profits and reduce reliability.¹ Hinchey turned her back on our community and supported legislation to:

- ✗ Increase energy costs by $800 per year for the average NY household³
- ✗ Require homebuyers to pay over $35,000 to electrify their homes⁴
- ✗ Reinstate the 18A Energy Tax²
